

Effective January 1, 2019:

National Energy Code for Buildings (NECB) and Section 9.36 of the National Building Code of Canada 2015 (NBC).

Please be advised, January 1, 2019, the Province of Saskatchewan will be adopting the National Energy Code for Buildings (NECB) and Section 9.36 of the National Building Code of Canada 2015 (NBC).

The NECB & NBC 9.36 adoption offers significant change to building design & the information required to adequately review & approve building plans. This will slightly change our reporting & inspection processes to buildings.

We will be forwarding additional details to Municipalities closer to the New Year. We will have our website updated for Energy design requirements early in the New Year.

Building Permits which have been reviewed & approved prior to January 1, 2019 will NOT be required to be enforced under the new energy requirements. However, Building Permit applications which have been received prior to the adoption date but do not contain adequate details to review & approve the permit will be required to be enforced under the new Energy requirements.

Please contact our office with any questions or concerns.

Regards,

Jason Kent – Building Official
